

1. Declaration of Exempt Information

The Applicant has provided below a listing of information claimed to be exempt from public disclosure. This listing identifies each section of the application that has been excluded from the revised Redacted Copy provided with the application, as described in Section 1.8 of the Application Instructions, and as allowed by the Commission’s Special Procedures Relating to Certain Applications, 538-X-3-.20ER.

The Applicant, as described in detail below, considers most portions of application-related documents, information, or records submitted to the Commission to be (1) personally identifiable information; (2) trade secrets or competitively sensitive information; and/or (3) otherwise exempt from public inspection or disclosure pursuant to Alabama Public Records Law (§ 36-12-40, et seq., Code of Alabama 1975 (as amended)). The Applicant has prominently and conspicuously marked all such information as “Confidential–Exempt from Public Disclosure.” The Applicant has submitted a brief, written description of the grounds for the redaction, including the specific authority supporting each redaction.

The Applicant has broadly redacted all sections of its application. The Applicant appreciates the Commission’s desire for transparency for all materials that do not fall within the specifically enumerated exceptions in 538-X-3-.20ER. To that end, the Applicant has only redacted information consistent with that rule recently promulgated by the Commission. Applicant also notes, however, that the overwhelming majority of the information requested by the Commission is either personally identifiable information, a trade secret or competitively sensitive information. That is, to a large extent, the entire point of the application – to determine who is going to be operating the business (personally identifiable business) and how that business will be operated (trade secrets and competitively sensitive information).

This is particularly true in a competitive application process like the one established in Alabama, where it is imperative for the Applicant to distinguish itself from other applicants. Distinguishing itself required the Applicant to provide the Commission with personally identifiable information, trade secrets, and competitively sensitive information so that Applicant can demonstrate to the Commission why Applicant should be chosen amongst the numerous other applicants to dispense medical cannabis safely, effectively, and securely to patients in Alabama. The Applicant has provided the Commission with all of that information in unredacted form, allowing the Commission to make an informed decision on the merits of each application. And based on that unredacted information, the Commission has on two separate occasions awarded Applicant a dispensary license. Applicant should not be forced to disclose to its competitors the very same personally identifiable information, trade secrets, and competitively sensitive information that allowed it to prevail on both prior occasions – particularly when there is no assurance that Applicant will not find itself in yet another round of applications. That possibility is far from remote, as the Commission is already on its third round of voting, and there is no certainty that the Commission or a court will not require additional submissions. It is also possible that the Commission will re-open submissions for certain categories of licenses in the future. If either of those things were to happen, and Applicant would have shown the world its personally identifiable information, trade secrets, and competitively sensitive information, it would be at an extraordinary competitive disadvantage because all other applicants would know precisely how to prepare an application that this Commission has twice deemed worthy of an award to dispense medical cannabis.

1.1.1 Written Description of the Grounds for Each Exemption

Pursuant Consistent with Alabama law, including 538-X-3-.20ER, which was promulgated specifically to address this submission, the Applicant has provided in the table below a written description of the bases for its redactions. Should the Commission have any questions regarding any redaction, the Applicant respectfully requests the opportunity to discuss the redaction with the Commission before its personally identifiable information, trade secrets, or competitively sensitive information is disclosed to other applicants.
